Glass art depicts timeless portraits of humanity

Exclusive exhibit makes only Midwest stop in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wisconsin— An award-winning contemporary glass artist's traveling exhibit makes its only stop in the Midwest at Jewish Museum Milwaukee from Sept. 14, 2016 – Jan. 8, 2017.

"Once & Again: Still Lives by Beth Lipman" is an exclusive mid-career retrospective that showcases the work of nationally renowned, Sheboygan Falls-based artist, Beth Lipman. Inspired by 17th Century Baroque still life, she uses the delicate medium of glass to comment on society, art and life. Lipman's spontaneous and expressive process results in capturing transitory moments caught between growth and decay and stand as timeless portraits of humanity.

Lipman is "one of the most compelling conceptual artists working in glass in America today," writes Mary Louise Schumacher, art and architecture critic for the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, in a 2013 review.

A preview reception with the artist will take place from 7-9 pm on Sept. 13 ($12 members; $20 non-members).

Planned programs for the exhibit include "Local Lives, National Voices," a multi-part series highlighting and celebrating individuals with local roots who are making an impact within a range of national artistic arenas. Other events include a conversation with Lipman and curators from the Milwaukee Art Museum and Chipstone Foundation, and a "Makers Tour Daytrip," which includes a stop at Lipman's private studio. Visit JewishMuseumMilwaukee.org/Events for a full listing of programs.

This exhibition, sponsored by the Mary L. Nohl Fund of the Greater Milwaukee Foundation and Suzy Ettinger, is organized by the Montgomery Museum of Fine Arts, Montgomery, Alabama.
